Angular formbuilder group custom validator.

Switch to the new project directory: Angular-personalized-validation-example CD At this point, you will have a new corner project. Secondly, the error message will be displayed. The use of validator in a model-based module directive is used for validation in model-based modules. There are several validators incorporated as required, e-mail, model and minlength. To use the directive in a model-based module, open template-driven-form-example.component.html and add the following code: src / app / template-driven-form-example.component.html Phone The phone number must be 10 digits This code creates an element and with an error message. Conclusion This article was introduced the addition of custom validation for models-based modules and reactive modules in an Angular application. This validator returns an object - { 'PhonenumbertnValid': True} - If the value does not meet the condition of not being equal to a length of ten characters. Then, open app.module.ts in the code editor and add reactiveFormsModule: src / app / app.module.ts import { browsermodule } from '@ angle / platform-browser'; import { ngmodule } from '@ angle / core'; import { FormsModule, ReactiveFormsModule } from '@ Angle / Forms'; import { appcomponent } from './app.component'; import { phonenumbervalidaDirective } from './phone-number-validator.directive'; import { reactiveformexamplecomponent } from './ad ad' etnenopmoCoipmesEmroFnevirDetalpmE { atropmi @Ngmodule ({ Declarations: [AppComponent, PhonenberbutododoDirdivo, ReactiveFiquExampleComponent, TemplativenFormExampleComponent], Imports: [BrowSermodule, Formodule, ReactiveFormsModule], Supplies: [], Bootstrap: [AppComponent]}) Export AppModule class {} finally, Open AppComponent. HTML and replace the contents with your reactiveForm: src / app / appcomponent.html You can run the npm startup command and interact with yours Entrance a web browser. Open Reactive-Form-Example ExamPonent.html in the code editor and create the following form: SRC / APP / Reactive-Form-Exampos ExamPonent.html phone
